

Russia Not Ready To Meet Allies Security Requests

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Russia's reply to Western disarmament proposals, consisting so far of questions, strongly suggest that she is not yet ready to meet what the Allies consider minimum security arrangements.

It appears that her primary objective is to get the Western Powers to give up the nuclear weapons which represent their chief balance against the East's manpower, both mobilized and potential.

The Russian suggestion that she and Red China should both have armed forces numerically the same as those of the United States — one to one-and-a-half million each — falls far short of balancing the atomic demands, even considering that the forces of the free world would probably outweigh the other forces of the Red bloc. The trained millions still would be available.

Russian tactics at the disarmament discussion also suggests that they want to keep talking about these points, especially the proposal for an atomic ban before the reduction in conventional forces is complete, before going very deeply into security arrangements which the West insists must come before any other action.

Thus, in many respects, in the New York discussions so far, the West has been talking about one thing and the Russians another. Neither side has produced anything new, although the United States has filled out President Eisenhower's suggestions on aerial inspection with some detail, including extension into the field of ground checks.

Some doubt was being expressed in United Nations circles that Russia intended to answer the Eisenhower offer directly at the current meeting. That would rob the session of a large part of its importance, which was never considered very great.

It has appeared all along that the subcommittee would refer rather than recommend to the foreign ministers.

Russia's Sobolev referred again Thursday to an early ban on the use of atomic weapons except against aggression, with the defini-

Budget Requests Hit $21 Million

BALTIMORE, Sept. 4 (AP) — The Departments of Correction and Mental Hygiene, two of Maryland's biggest agencies, submitted budget requests totaling more than 21-million dollars today.

The Department of Correction requested an increase of $1,000,000, or 10.5 per cent over its current appropriation—for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

The Department of Mental Hygiene requested $16,397,767. That is $1,579,434 more than its current allowance.

These other requests were filed during the day, swelling the total to $26,586,359.

State auditor's office—$249,948, up 5.4 per cent; Bureau of Mines, $46,945, up 1.6; Administrator of Loan Laws, $57,054, up 5.4 per cent; State Insurance Department, $244,852, up 4.6 per cent.

The requests were submitted to the Department of Budget and Procurement, which said the total requested was about 10 per cent over current appropriations for the same departments.

K Of C Dinner Will Be Held September 17

Final arrangements have been completed for the Old Defender's Day dinner-dance scheduled Saturday, September 17, by Chief Justice Taney General Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus.

The affair will be held at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Main speaker for the dinner will be Al Philip Kane, prominent Washington attorney and a member of the Knights of Columbus.

Kane is a former professor at Georgetown University Law School. His parents are former residents of Allegany County.

James Condon, general chairman of the program, announced that Ann Moore will provide music during the dinner. Music for the dance will feature Art Shaffer and his orchestra.

Wilbert Logsdon, past faithful navigator of the assembly, will serve as toastmaster. Rev. John U. Lyness will give the invocation.

The newly elected officers of the assembly will be installed at a meeting September 16 at the Knights of Columbus Home. John F. Nagel Jr., worthy master, will preside at the installation ceremony.

Officers to be seated include Robert E. Dawson, navigator; Joseph Webb, captain; James Condon, pilot; J. D. Murray, admiral; John W. Kreidler, scribe; Joseph Soethe, inside sentinel; James Quinn, outside sentinel; Francis Werner, comptroller; Walter Meade, purser, and Father Lyness, Friar.

Former Investigator Dies In Hagerstown

HAGERSTOWN (AP)—William T. Thurston, widely known many years ago as a criminal investigator and more recently as a pigeon trapper, died Friday night.

He was 71 and had been hopelessly ill for several months with cancer of the larynx.

His last job was bailiff of Washington County's circuit court. More than thirty years ago he became Washington County's first criminal investigator, working under State's Atty. D. Angle Wollinger.

Thurston attracted wide attention in the job, solving a number of murders, some arson cases, and a tar and feather incident in the Western Maryland Railway strike of 1922.

Schoenadel Gets Master's Degree

Ronald Schoenadel, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Schoenadel, La. Vale, received a master of commercial science degree, August 6 in exercises held at Strayer College of Accountancy, Washington, D. C.

Schoenadel is a graduate of Allegany High School, class of 1952 and received his bachelor of commercial science degree in 1954 from Strayer.

He is employed by Louis C. Grossberg, C.P.A., Washington. Schoenadel's parents attended the August 6 exercises.

Local Woman Appointed To Direct College Unit

Dr. Carolyn Callis Dunlap, 309 East Oldtown Road, has been appointed director of practice teaching at State Teachers College, Salisbury, Md.

A former member of the faculty of Fort Hill High School, Dr. Dunlap taught at University of Maryland this summer.

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Callis, 309 East Oldtown Road, she is a graduate of Pennsylvania Avenue High School and received her bachelor of arts degree from Western Maryland College in 1939.

She received her master of arts degree from the University of Maryland in 1950 and her doctor's degree from the university in 1954.

Dr. Dunlap has had two educational magazine articles published, "Readability of Newspaper Items and Basic Reading Material," in the Elementary School Journal of May 1951, and "Recording of Sociometric Data Made Concise and Continuous," in the April 1952 School Review.

At Fort Hill, she was a sponsor of Fort Hill Alpha Tri-Hi-Y. She is a member of the Cumberland Branch of the American Association of University Women, the Wesleyan Guild of Centre Street Methodist Church, and Grace Methodist Church and its societies.

Her appointment at the college was confirmed by the State Board of Education at its meeting this past week in Baltimore.

Community Chest Drive To Open September 6

Headquarters for the 1955-56 Community Chest Drive which will be held here in October will be opened tomorrow in the County Building, Union Street.

Charles L. Kopp, general chairman of the campaign, said volunteer workers will begin to handle the many details necessary in conducting the drive.

The United Fund goal this year is $125,794 and on the occasion of Labor Day Kopp pointed out that the working men and women of this community are responsible for much of the past success of the Red Feather agency effort.

The nine agencies of the Community Chest play important parts in the lives of the people of this city, Kopp pointed out.

In the past 20 years, Kopp said, a phenomenal record has been made by labor and management working together to build a better community.

In Cumberland, for instance, the general chairman pointed out the important part that organized labor plays in the Community Chest effort.

This year's budget committee included Charles L. Cross, business agent of Cumberland Local Plumbers and Steamfitters Union, AF of L, and Charles Davis, treasurer of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America.

On the Chest's board of directors are A. E. Johnson and William G. Rice, both former presidents of Local 26, United Rubber Workers and Coy F. Dyer, former business agent of the Plumbers and Steamfitters Union.

They were among the representatives of all segments of community life here who sat down to formulate the budget for the nine agencies—YMCA, Girls and Boy Scouts, Keating Memorial Day Nursery, Salvation Army, Associated Charities, Baby Welfare Society, Jewish Welfare Society and Travelers Aid Society.

Then there will be hosts of workers belonging to organized labor unions who will be in the united army of Cumberlanders as they strive to go over the top this year, Kopp said.

The general chairman pointed to the fine showing made by the members of labor unions in their plants through the use of the weekly payroll United Fund deduction.

Young Democratic Club Will Meet

The Young Democratic Club of Allegany County will meet Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the Algonquin Hotel, according to Thomas Barton, president.

In the year 809 A.D., the Emperor Charlemagne issued an edict which outlawed the pressing of wine with bare feet because it was unsanitary.

Betsy Walsh Enters Order

Miss Betsy Walsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Walsh, 811 Windsor Road will enter the Society of Sacred Heart Tuesday at the order's novitiate at Kenwood near Albany, N.Y.

Miss Walsh was graduated from two Society of Sacred Heart schools, Eden Hall, Philadelphia, and Manhattanville College, Purchase, N.Y.

At Manhattanville, she majored in English and Russian and was awarded a Fulbright Scholarship to study in France at the graduation exercises in June. She also won a graduate scholarship to Columbia University.

During her college years, she was president of the glee club, president of the Sodality, member of the student council, and was the winner of the prize for the best essay among the graduates.

The Society of the Sacred Heart was founded in Paris in 1800 by St. Madeline Sophie Barat. Its purpose is the education of youth.

The society operates 30 schools in the United States and has schools in all parts of the world. Two of Miss Walsh's uncles are priests, one of them a bishop, and two of her aunts are in religious orders.

Bishop James Walsh is under house arrest by the Chinese Reds in Shanghai, China, and Rev. John Walsh is located at Bedford, Mass. Both are Maryknollers.

An aunt, Sister M. Joseph, is in the Order of Notre Dame at Holy Angels Academy, Fort Lee.

County's Teaching Force Complete For New Term

When the Allegany County public school system opens for the new term tomorrow morning the teaching staffs of every school will be fully manned.

Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools, said it will be the first time in a number of years that a full staff has been available.

Rizer said that the turnover in teachers since the end of the school term last June has been the smallest in many years with only 27 high school positions to be filled. Last year there were 38 high school positions which had to be filled.

Of the 27 new high school teachers, 17 will be instructors in the special fields of education such as art, home economics, commercial, music and girls physical education. In recent years there had been difficulty in filling positions open in this special field of teaching, Rizer pointed out.

Of the new high school teachers, 16 are local persons, Rizer stated. He attributes the low replacement figures to the increased teacher salary scale in part. It is a known fact that the school plant system in Allegany County has always been a major factor in attracting teachers.

A total of 627 teachers will work in the county school system. This includes both elementary and high school teachers. Frostburg State Teachers College has provided five teachers for the junior high section and others in the elementary grades. Graduates from the college can qualify only for Grades 1 to 9 in the school system. Later on many of these teachers obtain additional degrees and can then be employed in the high school department.

Art Winners Announced

In the art exhibit classification at the Cumberland Fair $37 was awarded in prizes.

Winners in the adult division are A. D. Clem, Cresap Park, $3, oil painting in abstraction; Marshall Morton, Midland, $3, oil painting in realism; Anna Montgomery, Keyser, $2.50, oil painting on fabric; Mrs. Lawrence Brown, Route 1, Cumberland, $2.50, oil wall hanging; Jack Hazard, city, $2, watercolor, and Miss Barbara Ann Henry, city, $3, pastel.

Junior division winners were James J. Conner, Keyser, $2, oil painting; Eleanor Murphy, city, $2, Ronald Sindy, Cresaptown, $2, drawings.

Ceramic winners were Edith Gilford, city, $3, John Spross, LaVale, $2.50, Helen Cherry, city, $2, mold pieces; and Mrs. John W. Spross, LaVale, $3, Lucile Matlick, Cash Valley Road, $2.50 and Edith Gilford, $2, hand formed.

Junior Extension To Meet Sept. 7

A program for next year will be planned at the meeting of the Junior Extension 4-H Club, September 7, at the home of Royce Johnson, Winchester Road.

Members are asked to help give ideas for planning the program. A recreational period is to follow.

N.J., while another aunt, Sister M. Rosalia, is with the Mission Helpers of the Sacred Heart in Towson.

More than 1,000 vacuum tubes are used in a modern jet bomber.

EVANGELIST — Rev. H. F. Wiley, a professor at Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky., will be the speaker at evangelistic services planned at the South Cumberland Salvation Army Corps from September 11 through September 18 at 8 p. m., according to Lt. Thomas L. Curtis. Mrs. Everett Cull will serve as pianist.

Assessment Plan Listed

The Allegany County Assessing Department is currently making a complete property investigation in a number of sections of the county under the annual reassessment law.

Previously the assessors made property assessments every three years. Somerville Nicholson, chief assessor, said it would be physically impossible for the present assessor staff to visit each of the 40,000 or more real estate properties at present.

Only portions of the county can be reassessed and valuations corrected with the staff now in the department.

The new system does give assessors the right of annual correction of any assessment whether too high or too low. This could not be done under the old three-year system.

The Assessing Department during 1955 will check properties in LaVale, District 29, North Cumberland to the Bedford Road in District No. 5, and corrections in some portions of South End, District No. 4 and Election District No. 23 between Bedford Road and Baltimore Avenue.

The old law whereby no assessment of property can be decreased or increased in value without a notice or hearing to the property owner is still in effect.

There are 391 schools for practical nurses in the United States.

100 State Fish Experts To Meet At Deep Creek Lake

Over 100 Maryland fish authorities and field personnel will meet Wednesday at Deep Creek Lake in Garrett County, in one of the largest freshwater probes in the state's history.

Several hundred local citizens and personnel of the departments of the Board of Natural Resources are expected to be on hand to assist in making a biological study of fish conditions in this 3,800 acre mountain reservoir.

A 40 acre arm of Hoop Pole Run, near the Glendale Bridge, will be chemically treated with rotenone, (a fish suffocant), to kill all fish life for the purpose of examining size, length, weight and condition of fish. A team of 16 biologists from the Department of Research and Education, 10 law enforcement officers and State Police, and 20 regional fish management personnel will converge on the sample area at 6 a. m. September 7 in an all day effort to spray and recover the fish from the sample area and immediately examine all fish recovered to determine best management practices for improving fisherman success on Deep Creek Lake. Estimates of harvest range anywhere from 40 to 140 pounds per surface acre.

Active participation by the Deep Creek Lake Promotion Council, Deep Creek Lake Property Owners Association, Western Wildlife Federation, Mountain Top Chamber of Commerce of Garrett County, Water Pollution Control Commission, Department of State Forests and Parks, Department of Research Game and Inland Fish, Department of Health, University of Maryland, U. S. Soil Conservation Service, church groups, and many other interested agencies and services have made this a project of interest to many Marylanders, according to Ernest A. Vaughn, director.

Lower California, or Baja California as it is called in Spanish, belongs to the republic of Mexico.

Kefauver Visits Kremlin's Museum Of Medieval Armor

By STANLEY JOHNSON
MOSCOW, Sept. 4 (P)—"Look!" said a voice with a heavy New York accent at the Kremlin's museum of medieval armor to day. "It's Estes Kefauver — the tall one with glasses."

And indeed it was the Democratic senator from Tennessee, staring intently at an intricately carved ivory throne made 500 years ago for Ivan the Terrible.

The senator was a member of the throng which jammed the Kremlin and dramatized the new look spreading through Moscow these days. With Kefauver were Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (D-Mo) and Mrs. Hennings, Rep.

John M. Robison Jr. (R-Ky) and Mrs. Robison and Rep. Harold D. Cooley (D-Nc) and Mrs. Cooley.

Trailing them were American television and still cameramen taking pictures in the fabled storehouse of imperial treasures for the first time in history.

As the Americans gazed at a ball gown once worn by Catherine the Great and admired its 30-foot white satin train embroidered all over with golden eagles, Mrs. Hennings exclaimed: "How have they preserved it for 200 years?"

At this point up walked an Englishman who called out, "Hello, Estes." This was Cyril Osborne, a Conservative member of Parliament for North Lincolnshire. The two men had met at the recently concluded Interparliamentary Union meeting in Helsinki.

Milling around were some 50 French tourists whose cruise ship, the Batory, is currently anchored at Leningrad and who came to Moscow for three days of sight-seeing. Most of them were extremely well dressed and looked more as though they were holidaying at Nice than in the Soviet capital.

"This place is crawling with capitalists," said a disapproving New York voice. It belonged to a youth wearing a white sport few. The Kremlin museum opened shirt, brick red cotton slacks and in mid-July and today a typical a big badge saying "U.S.A." on crowd representing just about every chest. He preferred to remain in a shade of political and ideological-unidentified but had been a dele-cal opinion jammed it.

They all were wandering at will through a room filled with such priceless treasures as a patriarch's robe covered with 125,000 matched pearls which for centuries has been closed to all except a privileged

Court Decision To Be Appealed

COLMAR MANOR, Sept. 4 (P)—A received more votes than their circuit court decision, outlawing write-in votes cast in the last town election will be appealed.

This was announced today by attorneys for Harry W. Hill and Olin L. Merchant, unsuccessful candidates for mayor and a city council seat. Hill and Merchant

Hill and Merchant argued the votes should have been counted because the town charter says elections are to be conducted like county elections, in which write-in votes are legal.

The officials declared elected by the council are longtime mayor John N. Torvestad and Councilman Mortimer E. Rian.

The trend in movie theaters now is for fewer double features.

East-West To Struggle On Says Adenauer

BOCHUM, Germany, Sept. 4 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, in a final speech before his trip to Moscow next week, said tonight the struggle between Western and Communist ideologies "will continue for decades until we have finally achieved victory."

The 79-year-old Chancellor also called on Saarlanders to vote for the industrial Saar's Europeanization in the Oct. 23 plebiscite.

Referring to his forthcoming negotiations with Soviet leaders, Adenauer said the question of German unification would be "merely discussed."

He said it was the obligation of the victor powers to restore German unity and that therefore no decision could be reached in Moscow.

His remarks followed earlier warnings by the Bonn government to the German people not to attach too much hopes to the Moscow talks.

Adenauer said the Moscow talks should be "regarded in context with the Geneva Big Four parley and the October conference of the foreign ministers."

The Chancellor addressed more than 10,000 at a meeting of his Christian Democratic party in this industrial Ruhr center.

His speech came exactly one week before the negotiations on German unity, the release of German war prisoners, and the establishment of diplomatic, cultural and trade relations with Russia were scheduled to begin.

He expressed the "urgent and heartfelt hope" that the Soviet Union will "solve in a human way" the problem of the thousands of German prisoners of war still held in Russia.

Predicting that the fight against Communism will continue for decades, Adenauer declared Communist ideology was "diametrically opposed to the views of the Western World."

"Materialism is suppressing freedom and dignity of man," he said. "The free peoples are respecting them."

Adenauer said he was "greatly worried about the situation in the Saar."

He said he understood the Saarlanders' opposition to the autonomist regime of Premier Johannes Hoffmann.

"But the best means to have another government," he said, "is to adopt the Saar statute and then elect a parliament whose majority is opposed to Hoffmann."

The Statute places the Saar under a neutral commissioner while French economic control of the rich industrial basin is retained.

"There must not be created a hearth of unrest between France and Germany before the important second conference in Geneva," said, referring to the Big Four foreign ministers parley next month.

Will Build Home

Raymond Klosterman, 445 Pennsylvania Avenue, secured a permit yesterday to erect a one-story brick dwelling on Lots 28 and 29 of Homer Street.

The home will be 40 by 26 feet, is estimated to cost about $5,000 and will be built by Carl Abe, of Fort Ashby.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 (AP)—The Navy yesterday released for publication a photograph taken from a rocket about 100 miles up showing a vast expanse of the United States and Mexico. In the picture too is an above-the-earth hurricane shown in its entirety.

The horizon of the photograph extends 2,800 miles from Omaha, Neb., to the lower Gulf of California in Mexico. Parts of nine states and the whole of Texas are included in the 1 1/4 million square miles pictured.

The Navy said it believed this to be the largest earth area ever photographed from one spot at one time—an expanse equal roughly to two-fifths of the continental United States. The picture was taken from an Aerobee rocket by the Naval Research Laboratory of Washington, D. C., at the White Sands, N. M., proving grounds on Oct. 5, 1954.

The hurricane, in one corner of the photograph, is about 1,000 miles in diameter and is centered over Del Rio, Tex. The Navy said it believed this was the first picture of an entire hurricane.

Food Collection Planned By UO

WESTERNPORT — A house-to-house food solicitation for the needy will be held late next month under sponsorship of the United Organizations. Scouts will visit homes.

Alton R. Fortney presided at the recent first meeting of the group. He stated that $231.20 had been spent since April in deserving cases.

Fortney pointed out some of the immediate matters that have to be checked in the near future. With the beginning of school, UO will be called upon for clothing and shoes for children so they can attend classes. The storage room is in Piedmont.

Mrs. George Kight, representing Calanthe Temple of the Pythian Sisters; Mrs. Benjamin Mamolen, Social Welfare Club, and Miss Gloria Dimasi, of the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, and they will solicit volunteer storage room workers at their next meeting.

Fortney reported it would take about $1,000 in cash to carry out a Christmas program in providing baskets for the needy.

Before the organization was founded four years ago, needy families received more than one basket at Christmas time while other deserving families were overlooked. By compiling a master list this has been avoided.

A house-to-house clothing collection will be conducted sometime after the food drive.

Another meeting of the group will be held September 23 at the Westernport Library.

Commerce Teacher Assigned At Thomas

PARSONS—Stelman W. Harper, county superintendent of schools announced the appointment of Mrs. Mary Cooper Schurmann of Davis as Commerce teacher of Thomas High School. Mrs. Schurmann is replacing Mrs. Lucille Dumire Kight who was sent to Parsons High School.

Mrs. Schurmann was graduated from Davis High School and attended New River State college of West Virginia Institute of Technology at Montgomery and Bowling Green College of Commerce at Bowling Green, Ky. She has also done special work at Davis and Elkins College, Elkins in the past summer term.

Mrs. Schurmann taught in the Northern Junior-Senior High School at Accident, Md. last year. She has had five and one half years experience as a stenographer and secretary and five and one half year's experience in selling and store management.

WILLIE VANDEVANDER

Vandevander Gets Life In Penitentiary

Judge Calhoun
Passes Sentence

FRANKLIN, W. Va. — Judge Harlan M. Calhoun has dismissed the petit jury until September 12 as the current term of the Pendleton County Circuit Court recently ground through another 41 week of trials.

Shortly after the jury was dismissed, Judge Calhoun sentenced Willie Vandevander, who was convicted August 16, of murder in the first degree with a recommendation for mercy, to life imprisonment.

Willie was convicted August 16, of the fatal shooting of his brother, Adam Vandevander, during an argument over food.

George Whetzel was found guilty of incest and he was sentenced to an indeterminate term of from five to ten years in the state penitentiary.

In the case of State vs. Andrew Bennett and Herman Warner for carrying a gun in the woods during the closed hunting season, the jury found the defendants not guilty.

Raymond Mick and Floda Vandevander, who were indicted for contributing to the delinquency of a juvenile, each pleaded guilty. Mick was sentenced to eight months in jail, and Floda Vandevander was fined $25 and costs.

Also disposed of was the case of State vs. Hilbert O. Warner and Harold Sponaugle, who stood indicted for malicious assault. Warner entered a plea of guilty to assault and was fined $25 and costs, and the indictment against Sponaugle was dismissed.

The case of State vs. Verlin Eckard upon an indictment for grand larceny was tried and the jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

The following cases are set for trial in September:

September 12—Ada Butcher vs. Oliver Boyce, et al.

September 13—F. C. Cook and Company vs. John W. Judy, et al.; State vs. Don Cunningham and State vs. John Kennison Warner.

September 14—Harry Crigler vs. John M. Kee, Norman Pennington vs. C. F. Burgoyne and Laura J. Nelson vs. Don Arbogast.

September 15—State vs. Denzel Hamner.

September 16—State Road Commission vs. Jimmie Bennett, et al.

Policeman Loses Appeal

FROSTBURG—Patrolman Albert Klink, member of the Frostburg Police Department since August 16, 1951, was given a 60-day suspension Friday night for "conduct detrimental to the best interests of the force."

Klink, who had filed notice of an appeal with the Civil Service Commission for a previous suspension, was given a hearing before CSC members Earl F. Brain, Carl G. Storm and Harry G. Shupe.

Also present were Mayor Perry Myers, town commissioners, the city attorney and John M. Robb, Cumberland, who represented Klink. The suspension will run from August 15 to October 15.

Klink was suspended as the result of an automobile accident at Deal, Pa., August 13. A Midland mother and her two children riding in his car were injured when the vehicle plunged 40 feet off a Western Maryland Railway bridge and landed on its top.

Authorities said the injured trio were admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland. Klink sustained minor injuries.

On August 23 Chief of Police Lloyd Truly said Klink displayed a letter indicating he intended to appeal the suspension.

State's Attorney Dedicates Street Lights At Moscow

Fletcher Recalls
History Of Town

LONA CONING — The town of Moscow attracted over a thousand to their street lighting celebration Friday evening.

A parade was held at 7:30 p. m. including the Barton Hose Company No. 1, Inc., Barton Ladies Auxiliary, Barton Citizens Band, and the Barton Hose company fire truck; Lonaconing Good-Will Volunteer Fire company No. 1, Lonaconing City Band and majorities; Lonaconing Good-Will fire truck; the Sad Sacks of the Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars Lonaconing; and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Keyser, in uniform marching.

A program was held on the Moscow ball diamond with State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher giving the main address. His parents were residents of Moscow and he was born there. He told of the Moscow history.

Ervin D. Lewis, of the Potomac Edison company, gave a short talk. There are 19 street lights in the community. Barton band and Lonaconing band played selected selections during the program.

James "Butch" Morgan, 80, the oldest resident of Moscow, had the honor of pulling the switch to turn on the street lights for the first time, lighting the community. With the entertainment stands and children's rides all lighted colorfully on the Moscow ball field, the little community took on a hum of activity. Automobiles were lined on all the streets in the community with the large crowd of people joining in the celebration at the ball field.

The Moscow Light Association has Leroy Dye, president; Clarence Nelson, vice president; Miss Anna Lee Timney, secretary; and Mrs. Harry Shaw, treasurer.

The funds were raised by the Moscow citizens and a group of women holding bake sales and soup sales in order to have the new street lights installed.

The street light celebration continued on Saturday evening with a band concert by the Barton Citizens band and the children's rides and refreshment stands at the ball diamond.

Home Ownership Still Desirable

Federal Reserve Board reports that home ownership has increased by one-third during the postwar home buying boom since 1948. The survey, made as part of an annual sampling of family finances and purchasing intentions, covered approximately 3,000 families in all income groups and in all parts of the nation.

The study showed that about 30 per cent of renters and 15 per cent of homeowners interviewed were dissatisfied with their present homes. Some causes of dissatisfaction were unfavorable location, expectation of a change in job location and high operating expense.

But the most common cause for dissatisfaction was insufficient space and the need was most often linked to growth in family size. Families interviewed indicated that they would like at least one room for each member of the family.

Since 1948 home ownership has increased faster than the increase in the number of families established. Early this year 55 per cent of all non-farm families owned their homes, compared with 49 per cent in 1948. The largest increase in home ownership has been among families where the breadwinner is from 35 to 44 years of age.

The survey showed that approximately 54 per cent of owner-occupied homes are now mortgaged compared to 45 per cent in 1949. During the same period the median (mid-point) size of the home mortgage has increased from $3,000 to $4,700. Approximately 20 per cent of mortgage holding families interviewed indicated their mortgage was under a Veterans Administration program.

Approximately 5.8 per cent of the families surveyed were definitely planning to build or buy a home this year, with 3.6 per cent considering the possibility. This would indicate that the American's desire to own his own home is not diminishing.

Little Wars

Little wars often lead to big wars if ways are not found to limit them. The Indian "peaceful" war on Portugal over the colony of Goa, the Moroccan revolt against France, the Greco-Turkish-British crisis over Cyprus are dangerous areas of conflict which raise issues over small countries that involve great states and can cause major explosions.

Goa has been a Portuguese colony since 1510. Very little remains of the great Portuguese empire that once included Brazil. Goa, and its counterpart off the coast of China, Macao, is different from most Asiatic colonies in that the Portuguese and the natives intermarried and produced a new race whose cultural basis is Roman Catholicism. There is no anti-Portuguese movement in Goa, no desire among its people to become part of India. In effect, India is utilizing unorthodox methods of warfare to occupy and absorb the territory of another nation. True, the Indian government has not employed shot and shell, but its methods of mass movements can be as devastating.

The revolt of the Moroccans against France is an inevitable concomitant of the failure of France in Indochina. An empire can only stand as long as it has the physical power to hold the conquered countries on its periphery. Nationalism is rampant in Asia and Africa at the present time and while powerful nations may put down revolts, as long as they are not so powerful as to convince nationalistic groups that they can hold them in any circumstances, there will be new revolts. France lost face by the defeat in Indochina and therefore other nationalistic elements in the French empire will seek to free themselves.

The Moroccans are not only nationalistic but they are Moslems which means that a potent ideological factor enters into their conflict with Christian France. But is France any longer a Christian country? Do percentages enter into such a question? Could France in Moslem eyes have become a godless country?

In the United States, we are prone to ignore ideological factors. We think in terms of events and actions, which are really secondary and immaterial in the current conflicts. Moslems choose not to be governed by those who are not Moslems and unless the Europeans have the physical strength to hold what is not their own, they must expect such troubles as the Moroccan revolt.

Cyprus is an even more vexed problem. It is a British colony peopled by a very mixed population, about 80 per cent of whom speak Greek and the rest Turkish. English is also spoken as a lingua franca. The island not only lies close to Turkey but could act as a cork to bottle up the Gulf of Alexandretta. Greece and Turkey are allies in NATO and in the Balkan Alliance and therefore have no reason to quarrel. The Turks prefer the status quo; that is, that Cyprus should remain a British colony.

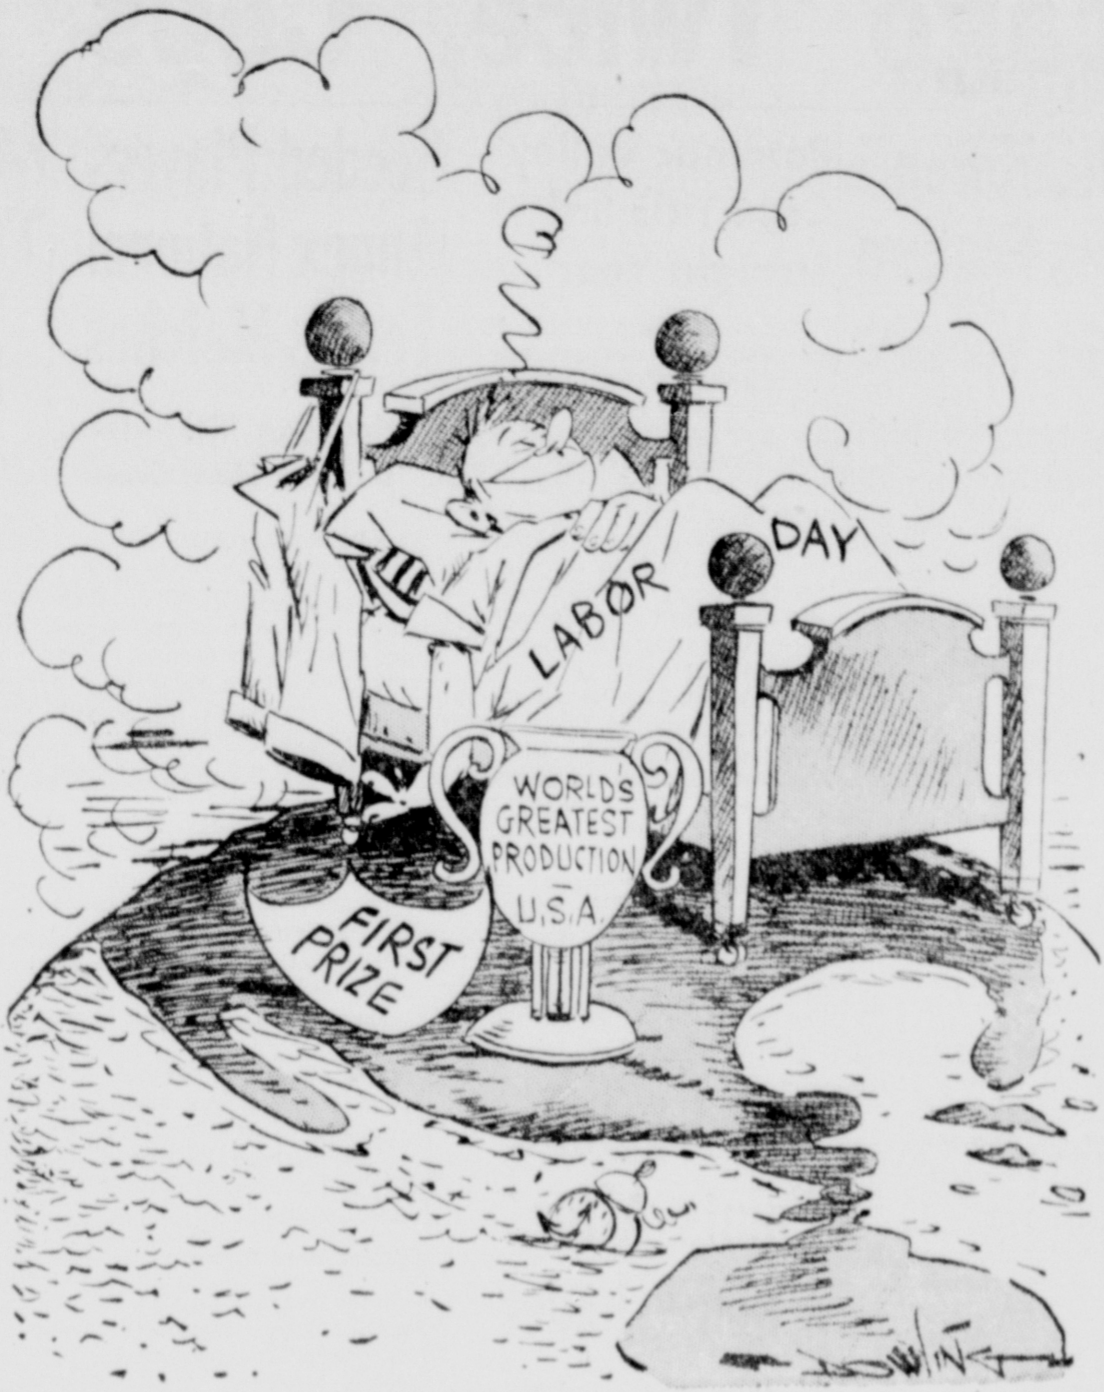

It is really doubtful that the sound leadership of Greece feels that this is the time for a conflict over Cyprus, but nationalistic public opinion has been so aroused in both Greece and Cyprus that no man in public life would dare at this moment to state in the open that he is against the immediate annexation of Cyprus to Greece. Yet men in high places know that such an annexation could lead to a war between Turkey and Greece and that Great Britain would be involved as the actual possessor of Cyprus.

Furthermore, if either Great Britain or Turkey appealed to NATO, the whole of the Western world would be in this thing, including the United States which guaranteed a Western European status quo through NATO.

Also Tito would have something to say as a member of the Balkan Alliance which would be destroyed by such a conflict and therefore lessen the position of Tito in the eyes of the Russians.

Thus, then, is a very bad situation. In the United States, it becomes complicated by the large and influential Greek minority who are not without a voice in American politics. Like Jewish influence in relation to Israel-Arab controversies, the Greeks have votes in the United States, whereas the Turks do not have votes—none to count. From the standpoint of domestic political realism, the administration in Washington must find this Greco-Turkish situation unpleasant because this country will support Great Britain and therefore Turkey, all of its spells trouble.

Not To Be Disturbed

Humphrey Most Influential Member Of Cabinet

WASHINGTON

This city is going through one of its invisible but vitally significant annual proofs of who's boss. Except in periods of crisis, President Eisenhower reigns but does not rule a good deal of the time. But his true vizier, George Magoffin Humphrey, never stops ruling any of the time.

There is a simple reason why this is the season for the annual proof that the secretary of the treasury is immeasurably the most powerful man in the Eisenhower administration after the President himself. This is the grim season of budget-making, when the departments and agencies are struggling to decide who shall get what share of the financial pie next year.

Through the budget-making process, George Humphrey, assisted by his subvizer, Budget Director Rowland Hughes, exercises a predominant influence in the American government. His unseen hand, always holding the purse-strings, effectively shapes American policy in fields theoretically far beyond its competency. In foreign policy-making, when the chips are down, he often plays a larger part than the secretary of state; in defense policy-making, an infinitely larger part than the secretary of defense.

Seeking Current Balance
This year, moreover, Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey is trying to do something extra. He is not merely seeking to balance the budget for the next fiscal year that will be presented to Congress next January. He is seeking to balance the budget for the current fiscal year. His revenue estimates have been raised. If he can make the departments cut a little more here and back a little more there, this year's outgo can be held within the probable limits of this year's income.

The sum to be saved is no more than three per cent of total spending, which looks trifling enough. But as usual, the big domestic spenders like the Veterans Administration and the Agriculture Department are protected by domestic political pressures. So, as usual, the real cuts are likely to be made in this country's survival insurance.

It seems to be the rule that we must always imitate the kind of family that lets the insurance policy lapse and allows the mortgage payments to fall behind long before the payments on the television set are suspended. This being our habit, it is a fair bet that $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 of already appropriated funds will be cut out of the foreign aid programs, although the desperate situation in the Far East demands a bold additional program there. And by the same token, the funds that Congress provided for defense are likely to be cut back $1,000,000,000 or so; and as usual $9 in every $10 of this "economy" will come out of muscle rather than fat.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

Hunting is relatively safe, considering the number of hunters and the low accident toll. When a casualty does occur, it is widely publicized because it usually is due to carelessness or is freakish in nature. But regardless of the low mortality, the majority of fatalities are avoidable.

With the onset of the hunting season, I'm more concerned about the man who is in no condition to overexert himself. The sport is just plain hard work and there's no sense in kidding ourselves that it isn't. Walking with pounds of gear through brush, marsh, or a cornfield is a burden to men not used to heavy labor.

As a rule, however, the normal heart can adjust to the strain but those over 50 may get into difficulty. The walls of his coronary arteries have been thickening gradually and the amount of blood able to pass through these vessels becomes less and less with each decade.

This is a silent process and the heart muscle will not rebel so long as it receives as much nourishment as it needs for the task at hand. In the beginning stages, there is no way to determine what goes on. When the physician listens to the heart, the contractions sound good and the beat is strong. Even the electrocardiograph is not sensitive enough to register this abnormality.

Finally, with continued narrowing, a point is reached where the blood flow may be adequate for business exertion but not for strenuous activity. This is particularly true when the hunter has worked overtime so that he can get away or if he has celebrated the night before and is suffering from the ill effects of too much to eat and drink and too little sleep.

This is a well known story and the headline reads: "Heart Attack Fatal To Deer Hunter." Such incidents can be avoided by making hunting a leisure sport or leaving it alone.

Most hunting guns are not peashooters but lethal weapons. Anyone who does not know the fundamentals of safe handling of guns has no business hunting. An unpardonable sin is to point a gun at a friend, even in jest. Jokers who do this are regarded as careless, dangerous companions and are not likely to be asked on another hunting trip.

Another variation of this rule is never to aim a gun at anything you do not wish to shoot; whether it be a mailbox, livestock, or the broad side of a barn. Every year someone is killed by a stray bullet or one that ricochets off a flat surface such as a rock or lake.

Always keep the gun unloaded and broken when traveling in a car, walking to the duck blind, or at the beach the color of a ripe tomato. "I guess," she admitted with a painful wriggle, "I got a little more sun than I basked for."

Working People Of U. S. Have Many Reasons To Count Blessings Today

By Tom McNamara

(Editor's Note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation his column is being written by members of his staff.)

WASHINGTON — The working people of America have many reasons to count their blessings this Labor Day. Never before in our history have the great craft and industrial unions faced the future with such confidence and solidarity.

In December the merger of the AFL and CIO will bring together approximately 15,000,000 workers, a united movement that will dwarf the already powerful influence of the two groups on the economic and political life of the nation.

We have the highest wage standards by far of any country in the world, plus a new concept, inherent in almost every union contract being signed, of health and retirement benefits for wage earners and their families.

The guaranteed annual wage, a dream of the past, has become a reality with the signing of the recent contract between the Ford Motor Company and the United Auto Workers. Congress has raised the minimum wage to $1 an hour for most low-paid employees and extended social security and survivor benefits to all but a few.

American labor can be proud of its unceasing struggle for these accomplishments. Labor also can look back with pride on a distinguished war record, in which it backed up its sons on the fighting line with staggering production quotas in defense plants while we were fighting two kinds of totalitarianism.

Labor-Go-Round

Labor's top leaders are observing the holiday in different ways many miles apart. AFL President George Meany will deliver a radio address tonight from the nation's capital. CIO President Walter Reuther is in Israel, where yesterday he helped dedicate the Philip Murray Labor Center at Elath. The center was made possible by a $100,000 grant from the Philip Murray Memorial Foundation, which raised $1,000,000 in honor of the late CIO leader. Most of it has been spent on Protestant, Catholic and Jewish causes in which Murray was interested. Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell attended the annual Labor Day mass at Sacred Heart Church here this morning and will make a radio talk tonight on labor's outlook for the future. . . . The first Labor Day was celebrated in 1882 by the Knights of Labor (a forerunner of the AFL) with a parade in New York City. In 1884 the Knights adopted a resolution that the first Monday in September should be proclaimed Labor Day and a drive was started to make it a national holiday. . . . The State of Oregon passed the first law recognizing the day in 1887; New York, New Jersey and Colorado soon followed suit. On June 28, 1894, Congress adopted a law establishing Labor Day as a legal holiday throughout the nation. . . . Unlike the European observance of the day, all classes of Americans join in celebrating Labor Day with parades, picnics, speeches, beach outings, athletic contests and other events.

Influence Not Great

As for Defense Secretary Wilson, as noted above he is never much inclined to oppose Treasury views, and even if he were inclined to fight, Wilson's influence with Eisenhower is not great. For Eisenhower's remaining interest in defense is wholly directed to the great theoretical and strategic problems, whereas Wilson's whole theme and interest center on the administrative problems for which he had been equipped by experience.

No wonder, then, that Secretary Humphrey, with all his immense advantages, weighs more in the councils of the Eisenhower administration than almost all the rest of the cabinet combined. No wonder, then, since the budget problem embraces all other problems, that Humphrey has become the predominant policy maker.

The final question still remains, however, whether even a man who would make a great secretary of defense if he had to deal directly with defense problems, and should make a fine secretary of state too, if he had to deal directly with the problems of foreign affairs, is really able to make final judgments on foreign and defense policy with no problems directly in mind except the problems of the Treasury.

days before adjournment, the smoky memo states in part:

"There is no public versus private power controversy in this bill. The President opposed Hell's Canyon because it is a public power project. He favors Upper Colorado because all the power will be sold at the 'load centers' to private utilities, who testified in favor of and unanimously support this measure."

The memo was signed by GOP Reps. William Hill and Edgar Chenoweth of Colorado, Keith Thomson of Wyoming, and William Dawson and Aldous Dixon of Utah. Those who have seen the unusual statement agree, from its wording, that it was either approved by the White House, as seems likely, or the five signers took drastic liberties in misquoting the President's views.

CIO Defends Horne

Labor Day at the summer White House in Denver hasn't been made any happier by a recent CIO protest to President Eisenhower against the dismissal of Dr. Frank Horne, the racial minorities expert of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. The protest, signed by George Weaver, director of the CIO Committee on Civil Rights, charges that Horne was fired for "transparent reasons," because he opposed segregation in federally supported public housing projects. Weaver added: "The greatest danger of successful evasion of the Supreme Court's public school decisions is residential segregation."

Hot Power Memo

However, there is a hot, confidential document floating around that White House strategists wish had never been written when the debate begins. It is a memorandum signed by five House Republicans, indicating that the administration plans to make the Upper Colorado project another "give-away" to private utilities.

Circulated at a closed-door caucus of House Republicans a few days before adjournment, the smoky memo states in part: "There is no public versus private power controversy in this bill. The President opposed Hell's Canyon because it is a public power project. He favors Upper Colorado because all the power will be sold at the 'load centers' to private utilities, who testified in favor of and unanimously support this measure."

Consolidations

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass. — Just now "split-ups" and "consolidations" are the fad on Wall Street. The two don't seem to go together too well; in fact, they appear to be contradictory. However many other things today are very inconsistent.

Automobile Consolidations

Every reader knows that the Hudson and Nash companies have consolidated into a new company called "American motors." Also that the Studebaker and Packard companies have combined. But all the consolidations have not been of "sick babies." Remington-Rand and the Sperry Corporation have been lively and prosperous; yet they have just consolidated.

Many consolidations have been due to the intensive competition of today—too many in the same business, resulting in cut-throat prices. Such consolidations should benefit an entire industry. Another reason is the death of the founder. The heirs find they must sell the business to pay estate taxes. This explains why certain banks are consolidating, including the very largest. A final reason is to get the tax benefits which one of the companies has accumulated through losses.

Possible Chain Store Consolidations

I expect someday to see a large consolidation of chain stores of various kinds. The present sight of a Woolworth, McCrory, Kresge, and some other of the big "5 and 10 cent" chains close together on the same street is silly. They have the same colored signs, same red fronts, and same show windows; yes, and the same prices.

Such useless duplication results in higher prices for the public. As the best department stores have federated into big organizations, I forecast a similar movement in connection with many chains. Fairness to the public demands such a federation with a central committee to pass on new locations and encourage more warehouses.

Importance Of Advertising

Advertising has been one of the most important forces causing and holding our present prosperity. Unfortunately, a large company has a great advertising advantage. Not only must a national advertiser be large to afford $25,000 for

You're Telling Me!

National production has reached a record $383 billion a year. Looks like Uncle Sam is one fellow too busy to take a vacation.

one week's ad in Life magazine and corresponding costs for other magazine, radio, television, and newspaper splurges; but there is something more to remember. The large company gets the space or the radio and TV time for the same price as a small company. This is a handicap to small companies.

I go further and say that unless some practical help can be given these small companies, our era of prosperity may slide off. Color advertising came just in time to save the day in 1946; while television advertising gave business another "shot in the arm" two years ago. Perhaps the able advertising agencies have something else "up their sleeve" to use as another stimulant to business when needed. The only one I can now think of is extending financial help to small companies so they can afford heavy advertising appropriations.

What About Main Street?

Forget the big consolidations and think of your own home town. In every one of the 406 cities carrying my weekly column, there are concerns which are entitled to help. These may be factories or garages or even law offices! The banks know the names of these concerns, and they should have the courage to advise such consolidations.

The small farmers now receive help. You may own a farm. Although you feel in your heart that the Benson price program is sound, you know it will reduce your income and profits. Put your pride in your pocket; call upon your neighbor farmer and suggest that your two or more adjoining farms stop cutting each other and cooperate. Remember that of all luxuries, pride is the most expensive. Pride is the chief cause of business failures.

What About The Consumers

In the last analysis, whether you are big business, or small manufacturers, or shopkeepers, or farmers, your own welfare will ultimately depend upon the welfare of the nation's consumers. If President Eisenhower were here, he would add: "Yes, upon the welfare of the world." Let us all get behind the consolidation program. Certainly it must come about in order to profit from automation or atomic power.

Rep. Thomas Lane of Massachusetts said he would introduce a bill in Congress forbidding serving alcoholic beverages on airplanes. He wants the belts kept outside the stomach.

Richard W. Porter, American Rocket Society president, says "Man has been interested in fire since he first burned his fingers on the embers of a forest fire started by lightning." And he's been burning his fingers ever since.

Television And Radio by John Crosby

The Year Ahead

One day, the NBC "Zoo Parade" safari in East Africa was shooting a scene out of the Amboseli Plain which is not exactly the most well traveled thoroughfare in the world when a small English sedan heaved over the horizon and descended on us in a cloud of white dust. Out clambered a husband and wife and some children looking exactly like an English family on a vacation which is what they were. A camera crew, I reflected, will gather a crowd anywhere, even in the heart of what used to be called darkest Africa.

Seeing the cameras, the English folk thought we must have come from Hollywood and they arrived expecting, at the very least Humphrey Bogart. When they discovered it was only NBC and that the films would be shown only on television, they were both disappointed and flabbergasted.

"You came all this way to take pictures for television!" exclaimed the lady. "You must have lots of money."

It's a very expressive remark and, in many different forms, it is being uttered all the time. And not only in Africa either. Even over here people are constantly being amazed at the profligacy of television. During the coming season, television will more than make up for the loss of the big screen. It's doing things on a grand scale. It's high time TV got credit for it.

Of course, grandeur and lots of money don't ensure good television but at least the networks are thinking in large terms which I think is a healthy sign for the viewer. At least, it's a healthier sign than the old philosophy, dominant only a short time ago, how little money can I buy for how many viewers can I buy for how little money which usually meant another quiz show.

Next year, as Pat Weaver, president of NBC, pointed out in this space in a guest column, NBC and CBS will do some 100 spectaculars. That's a staggering amount of entertainment and enlightenment for one country to produce in a single season. It won't all be great but the fact that the industry can get that great a variety and depth of material before the cameras at all is a fairly spectacular achievement.

PRIMER for PARENTS

BAD LANGUAGE... It's best to ignore it when your child uses a naughty word. He probably doesn't understand what it means.

Russian communism and India. And "Omnibus" will try to explore the whole Renaissance.

The trend is not only toward more costly shows but toward longer longer ones. "See It Now," which has been mostly a half hour show, will go in for 60 and 90-minute documentaries. It's far too early to say that the half hour show is finished but I think it's safe to say that the shows you will remember next season will be the longer ones. It's a network attempt to latch on to your attention with a single show early in the evening, and, by the time it's over, you'll be thinking about bed.

It seems to me that the public ought to reorganize its thinking about television just as thoroughly as TV has reorganized its thinking about itself. Television will take its public seriously only so long as the public takes it seriously.

That note of incredulity in the English lady's voice—"You came all this way to take pictures for television!" was very amusing at the time. But it's a little out of date.

Two Die In Airplane Crash South Of Somerset, Pa.

Light Craft Plunges Into Hillside Field

Fairmont Physician And Contractor Are Killed Instantly

A light, single-engined airplane crashed into a hillside just off U. S. Route 219, four miles south of Somerset, Pa., shortly after noon yesterday, killing both occupants instantly.

Pennsylvania State Police listed the victims as Dr. William Ord Nunnally, 37, prominent Fairmont, W. Va., physician, and Harry James Sturm Jr., 35, electrical contractor, also of Fairmont.

Both men died when their craft, a Stinson Voyager, apparently ran low on fuel and crashed as the pilot, believed to have been Dr. Nunnally, attempted an emergency landing.

The crash occurred about 12:25 p. m. when the plane plunged into the small hillside adjacent to an open field on the farm of Dalton Beighly.

Although the wreckage of the aircraft was scattered about for a distance of nearly 100 yards it did not burn. Deep furrows in the ground gave mute evidence of the impact with which the plane hit the earth.

Gas Tank Empty

State Police said there was no gasoline in the plane's tank following the crash, and residents in the vicinity of the mishap declared they did not hear a plane engine before they heard the crack-up.

Mrs. Lily Casebeer, who resides just on the other side of the highway, heard the crash, rushed out to see what had happened, and then called police. Neighbors, who got to the scene moments later, told police the two men were dead when they arrived.

The private plane was owned by Bud Bennett Motors of Buckhannon, W. Va., and the two occupants, both licensed pilots, apparently had chartered the craft for a trip to Philadelphia. Relatives told police the pair was en route to Philadelphia on a holiday trip, and authorities said the craft had been checked out of Fairmont for the Pennsylvania city.

5 Miles From Airport

Police believe the pilot, realizing he was low on gas, swerved slightly from his course in an attempt to reach the Somerset airport which is only five miles north of the scene of the crash. However, when his fuel ran out, he apparently tried an emergency landing in the open field on the Beighly farm, they added.

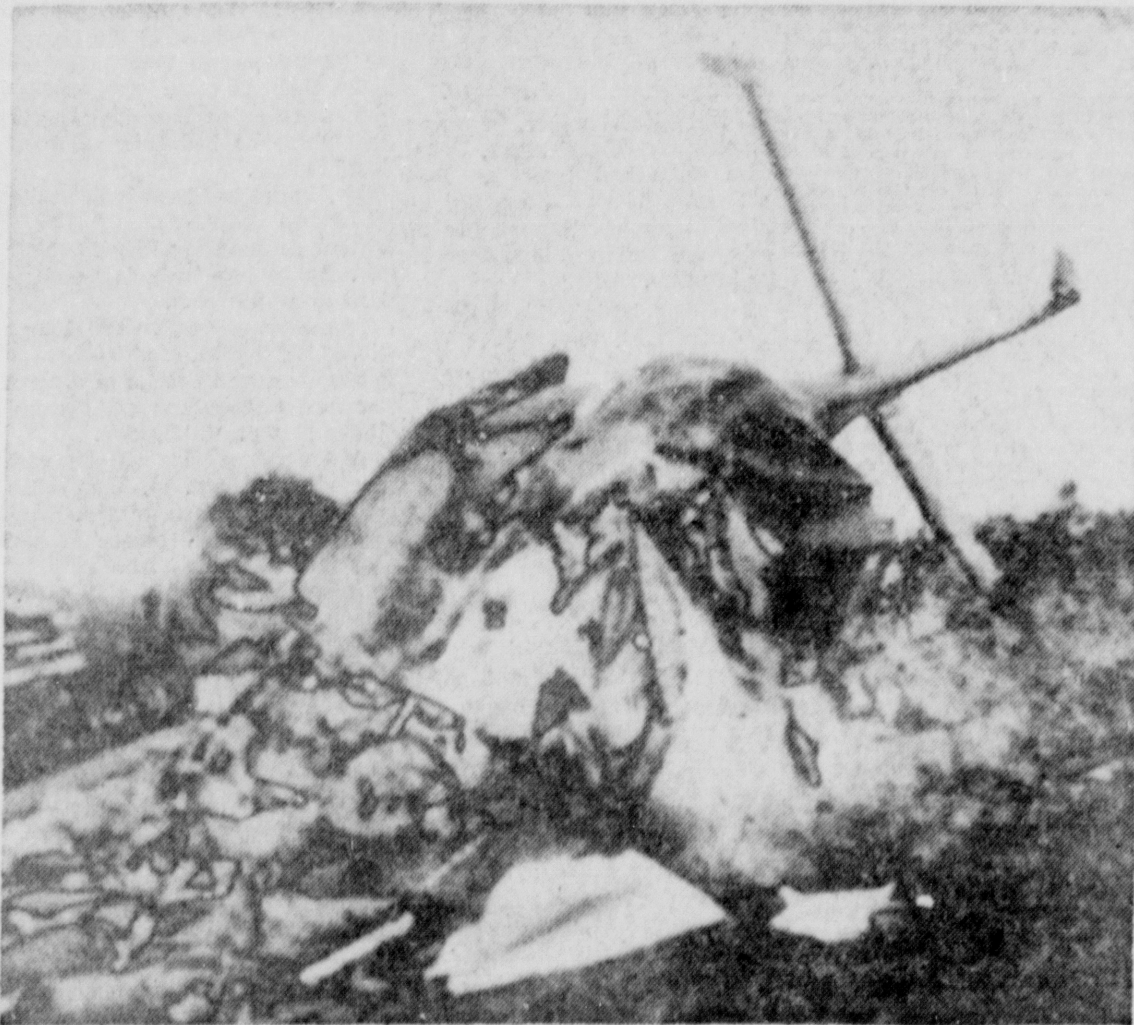

The Civil Aeronautics Administration has begun an investigation. The bodies are at the Hopkins Funeral Home, Somerset, pending completion of funeral arrangements.

Vandals Wreck Car

James Baughman, 661 Greene Street, reported vandals cut up the front seat and slashed open the top of his convertible car while it was parked near his home Saturday morning. City police are investigating. Baughman estimated damage at more than $100.

License Is Granted

The Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners has issued a Class D beer license to Lillian Himmeler, National Highway LaVale, who surrendered the license she held for a change of location.

Plane Crash Wreckage

This twisted wreckage was all that was left of a light plane which ran out of gas and plowed into a Somerset County (Pa.) field yesterday afternoon, killing both occupants instantly. The dead, both residents of Fairmont, W. Va., were Dr. William Ord Nunnally, 37, and Harry James Sturm Jr., 35, electrical contractor.

Area Free Of Highway Deaths

As the long three-day "Labor Day" holiday neared the close of the second day no fatal automobile accidents had been reported in the Cumberland area.

Early last night only four highway mishaps had been reported since last Friday night. Six persons were hospitalized in Bedford County Memorial Hospital following an accident on the Pennsylvania Turnpike near Breezewood when an auto blew a tire and crashed into a guard rail Saturday.

Two other auto crashes occurred on Route 50, five miles east of Romney. Four cars piled up in one of the accidents. A fourth accident about 1 a. m. yesterday involved one car, which crashed near Midlothian. State Police said no one was hurt.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. William Sutherland, East Liverpool, Ohio, announce the birth of a son, James Frederick, August 18. The mother is the former Maxine Conrad of Cumberland.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Newhouse, 212 South Smallwood Street, a daughter Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd N. Holcomb, 28 Boone Street, a daughter Saturday night.

Sacred Heart Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. James Sisk, 16 Altamont Terrace, a daughter yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Shoup, 305 Polk Street, a son Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Gaughan, Mt. Savage, a son Saturday.

Chorus Plans Program

The Knights of Columbus Chorus will present a program Friday evening in the lounge at the home of Cumberland Council No. 586, Knights of Columbus.

Today's Sermonette

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached yesterday at Living Stone Church of the Brethren by the pastor, Rev. Arthur Scrogum. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

Mending Old Garments

By REV. ARTHUR SCROGUM

Jesus had passed the tax office where Matthew was collecting taxes. He invited Matthew to follow him and the latter responded to the invitation.

As Jesus ate in Matthew's house many tax collectors and sinners sat with him. When the Pharisees saw this they said to the disciples, "Why does your Master eat with tax collectors and sinners?" Jesus heard their question and said to them, "Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are sick."

Rev. Scrogum to them.

Then the disciples of John came to Jesus and asked, "Why do we and the Pharisees fast, but your disciples do not fast?" Jesus said to them, "Can the wedding guests mourn as long as the bridegroom is with them? No one puts a piece of unshrunk cloth on an old garment, for the patch tears away from the garment, and a worse tear is made." (Mt. 9:15, 16)

There were various opinions of the mission on which Jesus had been sent. Some thought that he was a reformer, sent to mend the religion of the Pharisees. When he made the statement about mending an old garment Jesus was telling his hearers that his mission was not one of mending that which he found. Instead it was his purpose to transform life, to remake individuals, to make all things new.

There are still differences of opinion as to what Christianity should do for its followers. All agree that there is much need in the world but we differ on the manner in which we should attempt to meet the need. Some would attempt to mend our human relationships. They would try to reform these relationships enough to make them respectable. They would list a series of "don'ts" which should be observed. This was not Jesus' plan for solving human problems. Instead of making religion one department of life his plan was to make it a vital factor in every area of human relationships.

The relationships between capital and labor have been handled pretty largely on the basis of arbitrary demands on the one hand and grudging concessions on the other. The essential element on both sides is too often the element of selfishness. Get all you can and give as little as possible, seems to be the attitude which prevails in large measure.

Jesus would change this whole pattern. Instead of patching this system he would give it a new garment. He would put the principle of the golden rule into our problems. Cooperation and consideration would replace the selfish element.

None of the world's problems will be solved ultimately until this new attitude replaces the old. Labor problems, international affairs and other human relationships will be solved only as this new garment replaces the old. As we honor those who labor let us understand the only real basis on which their lot can be made better.

Picnic Postponed

The homecoming picnic of the Cumberland Branch of the NAACP will be staged at Malampy's on Christie Road from noon until dusk today. It was postponed yesterday because of threatening weather. There will be games, swimming and dancing.

Red Cross Halts Appeal For Flood Fund

National Quota Is Contributed

Allegany County Chapter Red Cross has cancelled its emergency flood relief fund campaign, upon receiving official notice from Ellsworth Bunker, general chairman of the agency's $10,000,000 drive to aid flood victims in eastern states.

Bunker telegraphed Mrs. Harry Beneman, chapter chairman, notifying her yesterday that the national goal of $10,000,000 has been contributed or pledged and no further solicitation is necessary.

Mrs. Beneman said the chapter here is grateful for the gifts received by county people, and these have been included in the nationwide collection. As of Friday evening, Allegany County had raised only about $1,820 of its $2,617 assigned quota, but Mrs. Beneman said there may be contributions in the mail over the weekend. These will be added to the county total, and forwarded to national headquarters.

The entire campaign throughout the country was conducted as an emergency appeal through publicity by newspapers, radio and television. The result is very gratifying to the Red Cross, Mrs. Beneman noted, and shows how quickly the American people rally to those who are victims of disaster, such as these devastating floods.

The telegram from the national campaign chairman follows:

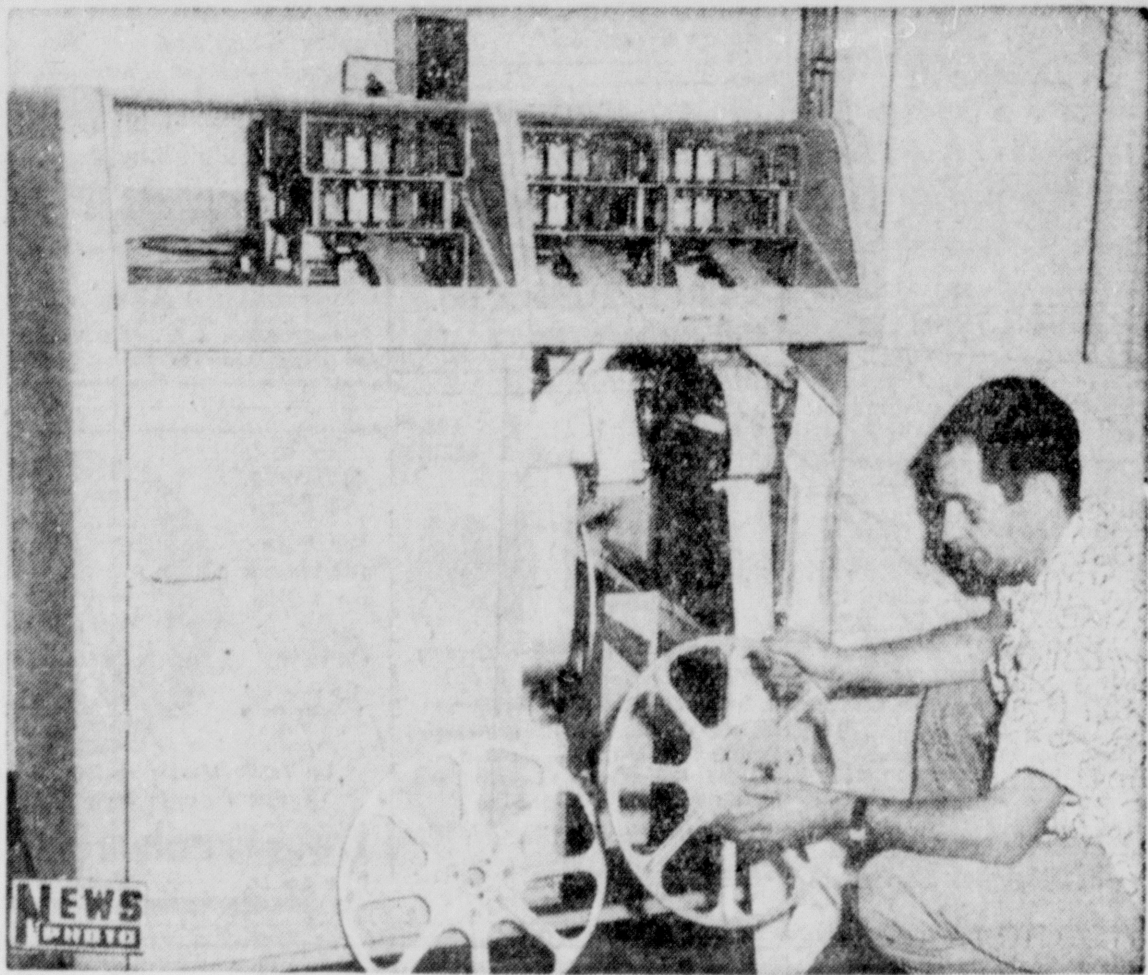

Wish to advise you that through generosity of the American people our chapters have today (Saturday) reported in contributions and pledged gifts to the Red Cross Flood Disaster Fund, more, than $10,000,000. This assures us of sufficient funds to meet adequately Red Cross requirements in Eastern States flood relief operation. You are therefore authorized to inform the people within your chapter jurisdiction in whatever way seems proper to you that with funds available, contributed and pledged, no further contributions are necessary. Chapter leadership in this effort has been outstanding and we are grateful for your support. Please take this opportunity to thank all those who have so willingly contributed to this disaster fund and the chapter and community leadership which has made this magnificent effort possible. (Signed) Ellsworth Bunker, chairman.

U. S. Counselor To Leave Soon For Denmark

The American counselor for some 17 foreign students who are spending the long Labor Day weekend in Cumberland as guests of the members of Central Methodist Church soon will find himself in much the same position as his 17 associates, a foreign student.

He is George Schoedinger, a resident of Oregon and a student at the Whitman College in Walla Walla, Wash. Schoedinger said yesterday that he will leave for Europe with the students September 17 and plans to spend the next year to 18 months in Copenhagen, Denmark.

Schoedinger said his aims in Denmark are twofold. He plans to work for a travel agency there and at the same time continue his education there. The young man, who is a son of an Episcopal clergyman in Oregon, attended the 11 a. m. service yesterday at Emmanuel Episcopal Church.

Records Long Distance Calls

Daniel F. Illari, C&P Telephone Company central office repairman, here checks the tape on the automatic message accounting machine which records all long distance calls made from Cumberland on a heavy tape for billing purposes. The tape is changed every morning and sent to a process center where calls information is recorded on a statement which is mailed to the customer. The electromagnetically controlled relays at the top of the machine punch a record of every call on the tape which runs continuously through the machine. Divided into three sections, the relays on the right are spares, the middle set for Parkview 4 numbers and the left set for Parkview 2 numbers. The recorder is located on the second floor of the telephone building.

Nearly 16,000 Students Will Resume School

New Building Ready At LaVale

Nearly 16,000 Allegany County boys and girls are expected to answer the call tomorrow morning when the public schools open their doors for the start of the 1955-1956 school year.

For about 250 of the boys and girls in the LaVale area it will be an especially pleasant treat because they will attend the brand new $400,000 Parkside Elementary School on Parkside Boulevard. Miss Margaret E. Doak, formerly principal at Corriganville School, is principal of this new structure, one of the nine projects in the $3,500,000 school construction program approved by the General Assembly in 1953.

There also will be a big difference for some 150 other boys and girls. They are Negroes who have registered to attend some 10 previously all-white schools in Cumberland, Frostburg and Eckhart.

This integration program, approved by the Allegany County Board of Education in July, raises a major question as to the future status of Lincoln Elementary School in Frostburg which was built two years ago as one of the early projects in the current school building program.

Last year the one-room school for the six elementary grades had fewer than 30 pupils enrolled. This year some 34 Negroes in the Frostburg area have registered to attend Beall Elementary or Hill Street School in the new term.

That indicates that very few if any Negro children in Frostburg wish to continue their studies at Lincoln. Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster said Miss Kathleen Cooper, who has taught the Lincoln School children for a number of years, will be on hand tomorrow morning to greet any children who wish to continue studies there.

Complex Machine Records All Long Distance Calls

By JOHN W. KNOWLTON News Staff Writer

Place your long distance calls carefully and accurately, and report any error immediately to the telephone operator.

This will keep you from being billed for a call which got a wrong party or was not completed properly, says C. Walter Haschert, manager of the local C&P Telephone Company.

A complex device called an automatic message recording machine records all long distance calls on a heavily oil impregnated paper tape. The machine perforates impressins on the tape listing the calling party's telephone number, the called party's number, the answering time, which starts the charge feature, and the disconnect time when charge ends.

Works Automatically

The machine works automatically and records all calls made, listing the trunk line on which the call is placed and detailing the necessary information for time and charges on the call on the tape.

Using a numerical system of spaces on the tape, combinations of which will give every letter or numeral on the dial phone from 1 through 0, electromagnetically operated relays perforate the tape for each call automatically.

When the long distance number is dialed the tape is punched with the trunk number on which the call is made, the caller's phone number and the number called. When the call is answered, the trunk number is again punched with the time listed. When the disconnect is made the trunk number is again punched and the time listed.

The tape can handle numerous calls at the same time. It may have information of a single call interspersed with information of other calls not related.

The tape is then clipped at 8 a. m. every morning by a central office repairman and is sent to Washington to a process center.

Cards Are Punched

At the process center the tape is run through a similar machine which punches the information on cards, separating each call according to the number of the caller's phone.

These cards, in turn, are placed in a machine which separates

Appeal Made For New Donors At Bloodmobile

The regular monthly visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile is scheduled for tomorrow at the Eagles Home, North Mechanic Street, from noon until 6 p. m.

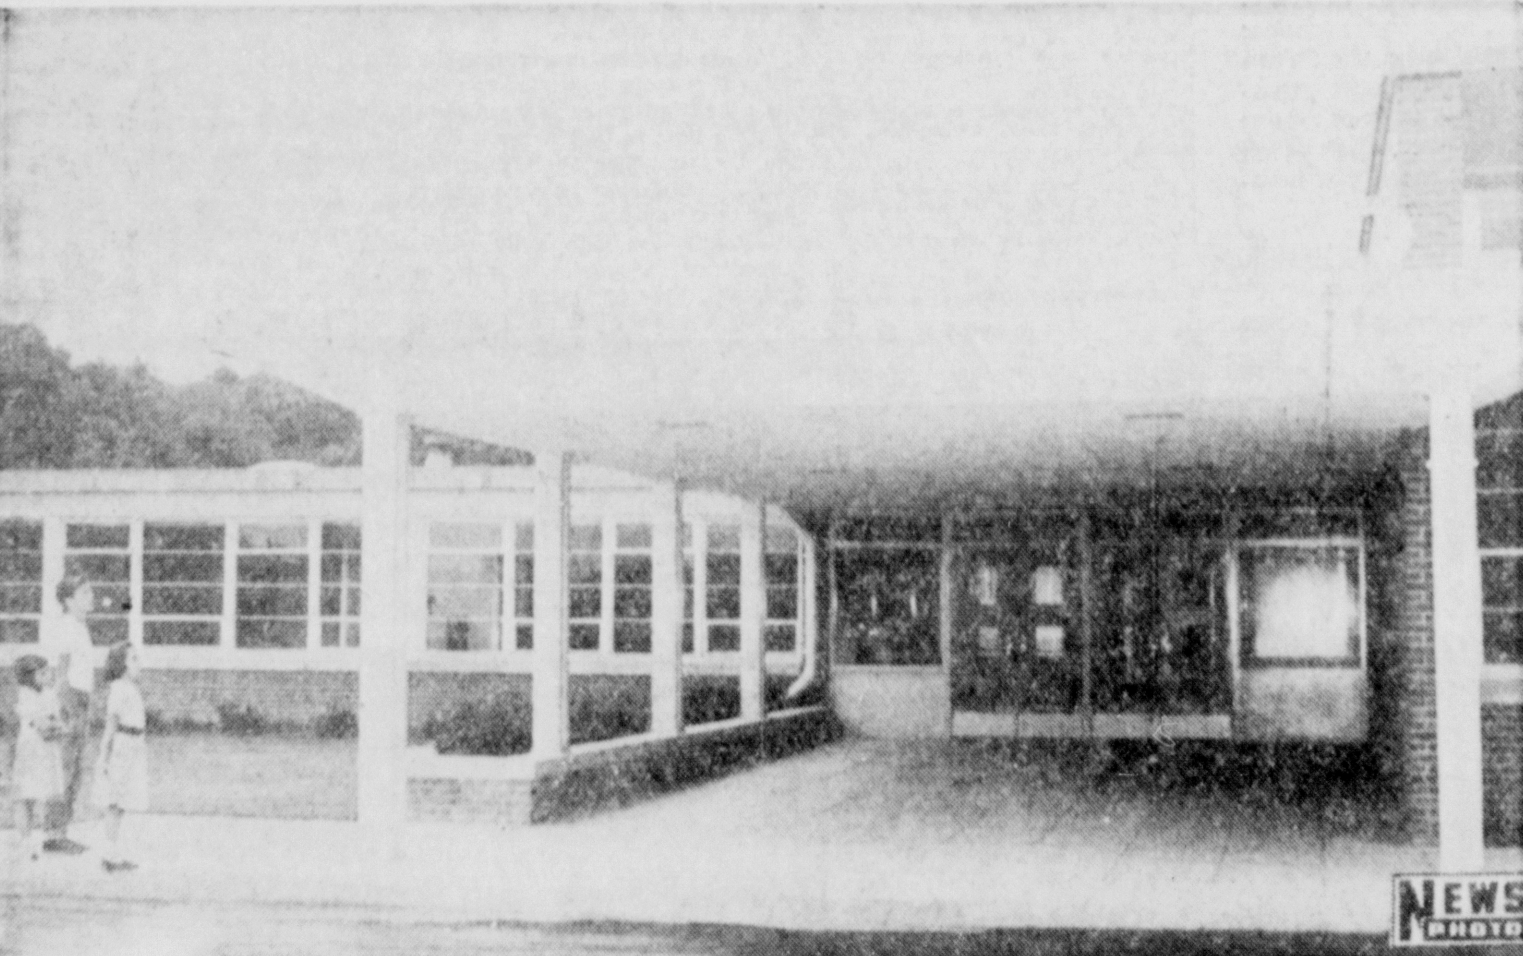

At the July and August visits, Cumberland fell below the regular quota, and the number of new volunteer blood donors has been decreasing.

Officials point out that if Cumberland is to continue in the blood bank program, and local hospitals are to be supplied with the needed blood, there must be more new volunteers.

The same people have been giving blood regularly, and the Gall-on Club and Two-Gallon Club member lists have increased steadily. Officials appeal for new volunteer donors, explaining that the program will fail if the same people give blood all the time and no new donors are recruited.

Blood is administered free of charge by local hospitals except for a nominal administration charge. Without the blood bank here, local needs would have to be met by seeking volunteers for each emergency, or blood would have to be purchased from professional donors for as much as $25 per pint.

As long as Cumberland gives blood to the Bloodmobile unit, all residents are entitled to receive free blood if they need it, by paying only the nominal administrative charge made by the hospitals. Cumberland needs 150 donors tomorrow.

Wait For New School To Open

These three children in the Parkside Boulevard neighborhood of LaVale are shown standing near the entrance to the new Parkside Elementary School which will be used for the first time when the 1955-56 school term opens tomorrow morning. The John I. Vandegriff Company built the 10-classroom school under a bid of $392,940. It also includes a library and a cafeteria which can be adapted as an all-purpose room. Although the school will be able to take care of as many as 300 children, only about 250 are anticipated when classes start. The children in the picture are Pat Lee Mayo, Darlene Lynn Mayo and Earl Lynn Snyder.

Foreign Students Welcomed To City

Rev. Edgar Ward Hammersla, extreme right, pastor of Central Methodist Church, is shown extending a welcoming handshake to Gunnar Nielsen of Denmark, one of 17 foreign students from seven countries, who are spending the Labor Day weekend here as guests of members of his church. In the group, left to right, are Karl-Heinrich Middlehaue, Germany; Pierre Bel, French Algeria;

Margaret Post, England; George Schoedinger, American counselor for the group; Leonie de Roo de la Faille, Holland; Anita Graffman, Sweden; Nielson D. Parry-Jones, England, and Rev. Hammersla. The group will leave here Tuesday morning for Wheeling, W. Va., and Columbus, Ohio. They will return to Europe September 17.
